Profile

Andrew M. Mintzer, CPA, brings over 40 years of distinguished experience to the accounting profession, including 17 years with Ernst & Young. In 2025, he was awarded the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants (AICPA) Gold Medal Award of Distinction—the Institute's highest honor, recognizing his profound and enduring impact on the profession, his leadership in ethics and standards setting, and his advocacy for the public interest.

A recognized leader, Mintzer served as Chair of the California Society of CPAs—the largest state CPA society in the U.S.—during the 2016–17 term, and was elected in 2021 to a three-year term on the Board of Directors of the Association of International Certified Professional Accountants. His professional excellence has earned multiple national and regional honors, including the Los Angeles Business Journal's "Top 100 Accountants" in both 2023 and 2024 (with its 2023 Accounting Icon Award), the 2024 Forbes' inaugural "America's Top 200 CPAs" list, the 2024 Lynn Pippenger Recognition Award, and Forbes' inaugural 2025 "Best-In-State CPAs" list.

Mintzer is a forensic accountant and testifying expert in accounting, auditing, and SEC financial reporting matters. He has testified in federal and state courts, including as an accounting expert during In re Vivendi Universal, S.A., one of the few securities class actions tried to verdict since the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995.

He has developed and instructed numerous educational programs in accounting and auditing, and is an instructor for the National Judicial College, teaching judges about financial reporting and audit matters.

Mintzer has been appointed to four national and international standard-setting bodies, a reflection of his professional judgment and technical expertise. He recently completed a six-year term on the International Ethics Standards Board for Accountants (IESBA), which issues global ethical standards. He previously served on the AICPA's Professional Ethics Executive Committee (2014–2018), the Auditing Standards Board (2008–2010), and the Accounting Standards Executive Committee (2001–2005), contributing to U.S. GAAS, GAAP, and ethics standards.

He is also credentialed internationally, holding CPA licenses in Canada and Australia, and has completed the AICPA's International Financial Reporting Standards Certificate Program. Mintzer is a Certified Fraud Examiner and is Certified in Financial Forensics (CFF) by the AICPA. He holds a B.A. in accounting and a Master of Accountancy from the University of South Florida.
